FDR Sees Attempt to Change Neutrality

SAYS HE WON'T ACT ALONE ON SHIP ARMING

Reports Final Decision on Altering Law Awaits Tuesday Conference.

DEMS, GOP TO ATTEND

President Says He Has Not Considered Changing Combat Zone Marks.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt asserted again today that undoubtedly there would be some effort made to revise the neutrality act. A final decision on the matter, he told his press conference, would be reached only after a bipartisan conference next Tuesday with senate leaders.

On the issue of arming American merchant vessels, now forbidden by the law, the president said in response to a question that he considered the statute so definite on this point that it would not be right for him to try to wiggle out from the definite policy of congress.

He said, too, that he had given no thought to revising present definitions of combat zones by presidential order.

The chief executive indicated that he believed the whole neutrality law problem could be thrashed out at Tuesday's conference.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders will be asked to the White House for it, and Chairman Bloom (D., N.Y.) of the house foreign affairs committee will be asked to sit in as an observer.

A suggestion by Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) that President Roosevelt set aside most provisions of the neutrality law by executive order stirred Capitol Hill controversy today, and Senator Taft (R., Ohio) declared that such action would amount to an effort to involve the nation in war without the consent of congress.

Pepper, a member of the foreign relations committee and advocate of more active aid to Great Britain and Russia, told the senate yesterday the president could permit the arming of American merchant ships and authorize them to travel in belligerent zones merely by revoking his 1939 proclamation putting the law into effect.

Not Too Blind to Drive Truck, He Loses His Pension

Anyone who can qualify for a truck driver's license is not blind enough to receive a pension, Ashland county commissioners agreed today as they struck the name of a 45-year-old pensioner from the October list after he had taken out a driver's license.

Married and the father of seven children, the man, according to the commissioner's office had been trucking for himself for some time although receiving a $30-a-month pension. He had received the pension for at least three years, the office said.

The commissioners had tried to remove the man from the pension roll several times in the past but the state contended he was blind enough to receive aid. Inasmuch as the blind fund is now administered by the commissioners they followed their own dictate in making up the October pension roll.

WINS AWARD

Public Health Secretary Honored For T.B. Prevention Work.
COLUMBUS—(AP)—Dr. Robert G. Paterson, executive secretary of the Ohio Public Health Association, received the Hoyt E. Dearholt medal last night for distinguished service in the field of tuberculosis prevention.

The award was made at the annual Mississippi Valley conference on tuberculosis.

Religious Question Taken Up

FDR Instructs Harriman to Discuss Problem in Moscow Talks.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt disclosed today that he had instructed W. Averell Harriman, head of America's mission to Russia to take up in Moscow the question of religious freedom in Russia.

The chief executive told a press conference that the question also had been taken up previously with the Russian government, leaving the impression that this had been done through Lawrence Steinhardt, the United States ambassador.

He said he had received no report from Harriman and could not say until he did get one whether the overtures would result in some success.

President Roosevelt was urged in a high Catholic quarter today to take a direct hand in influencing Soviet Russia to grant full religious freedom, now that he feels that an "entering wedge" for such an eventuality is "definitely on its way."

The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown university, said the events of the last 24 hours convince him that the hour has come for a definite and constructive move on the part of the president of the United States.

After Mr. Roosevelt, at his Tuesday press conference, had described the Russian constitution's religious guarantees as essentially the same as ours, Father Walsh quickly declared that provision of the Russian constitution was "nothing but a hollow shell."

His later and more hopeful comment was based upon a White House statement issued late yesterday, declaring that the president's press conference remarks had been subjected to conflicting interpretations and some misquotations.

GETS SENTENCE

McLean Ordered to Pen For 'Firecracker' Slaying.

XENIA — (AP)—Hayes A. McLean, 72, former Cedarville marshal, today was sentenced to 20 years in Ohio penitentiary for the July Fourth eve "firecracker" slaying of Wallace Collins, 18-year-old Ohio State university student.

Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Johnson imposed sentence after overruling a new trial motion and refusing to grant probation.

McLean's counsel immediately posted notice of appeal. McLean remained free under $3,000 bond pending consideration of his case by the district appellate court next Wednesday.

Collins was shot to death as he and other youths rode about Cedarville discharging firecrackers. McLean, convicted of manslaughter, maintained that he fired only to scare the boys.

Back Broken, Girl Moved From Mansfield to Beloit, Wis.

A little girl with a broken back and her mother, suffering from nine broken ribs, went home to Beloit, Wis., today in a stretcher after being confined to the Mansfield General Hospital since Aug. 15, because of an automobile accident.

Placed in a special cast last week, the girl, Nancy Weiser, was lifted from the stretcher in the vestibule of a Pennsylvania railroad train this noon, and carried to a drawing room with her mother, Mrs. Geraldine Weiser.

Mountain Climbers Plan Attempt To Save 'Chutist' From Sheer Peak

Dunkirk Veteran Spends Night Atop Lofty Devil's Tower.

(By United Press)

DEVIL'S TOWER, Wyo.—The wind howled around Devil's Tower today and occasional snow flurries whipped the granite peak as two skilled mountain climbers prepared to start up its precipitous face to rescue George Hopkins.

Unless the freezing weather makes the climb too hazardous, they hoped to reach the 865-foot summit and start back down with Hopkins today.

Hopkins, 29-year-old professional parachutist, former instructor in the RAF, and a veteran of the Dunkirk evacuation, won a bet at 8:11 a. m. (MST) Wednesday by leaping from an airplane and landed on the bald acre that is the top of Devil's Tower.

But since that moment he has been stranded. When he jumped he failed to consider that he had no experience in mountain climbing and that Devil's Tower, which rises almost perpendicularly from the north-east Wyoming badlands, is such a hazardous climb that only 40 persons ever have scaled it successfully.

Hopkins tried once last night to make the perilous descent with the aid of a drawing of the tower and a rope dropped to him from an airplane. He descended less than 100 feet in an hour, stopped long enough to shout down to the ground that "it looks too tough" and climbed back to the safer perch atop the peak.

The airplane went aloft again and dropped Hopkins a tent, firewood, additional blankets,

Here is the volcanic monolith named Devil's Tower, in north-eastern Wyoming's badlands, to which Charles Hopkins, 30-year-old Texan stunt flyer, parachuted to win a bet but couldn't get down to collect it.

and a box of food including a hot steak dinner. "I hope I don't have to spend the night up here," he shouted, but, advised that the skilled mountain climbers had been summoned, he answered: "I guess I'll try to get some sleep."

Through the night his bonfire shined faintly atop the tower—Hopkins' beacon of hope. The firewood was dropped because the summit, like the rest of the tower, is solid granite. There is no vegetation there except bits of scrub brush in the crevices.

CHARGE INDIES BETRAY JAPAN

Press, Cabinet Angry Over Shipment of Rubber, Oil to Russia.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—The Japanese, unsuccessful in obtaining a greater share of the rich resources of the Netherlands East Indies, expressed today strong resentment at the colonial government for shipping oil and rubber to Soviet Russia.

Koh Ishii, cabinet information bureau spokesman, told foreign press representatives his government would regard as evidence of an "unfriendly attitude" large-scale exports of such vital war materials from the Indies to Russia, inasmuch as Japanese trade with the Indies is virtually at a standstill.

SAVES COLETTE

Petaín Intervenes, Commutes Death Sentence.

VICHY — (AP)—Marshal Petaín intervened today to save the life of Paul Colette, under death sentence for the attempted assassination of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat.

The young Norman's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Colette, who was sentenced to die by a special French court in Paris Wednesday, was saved from the guillotine at the last minute at the urgent request of Laval and Deat themselves. They were gravely wounded in the attempt on their lives, which was made Aug. 28 at a public ceremony.

Colette yesterday had appealed for clemency to Marshal Petaín, the only man who could save him.

PLANE EXPLODES

Two Canadian Flyers Hurt, Others Go Unscathed in Accident.

HALIFAX, N. S. — (AP)—Two Royal Canadian air force flyers were injured and their two companions almost miraculously escaped unscathed today when their RCAF plane, speeding down the runway at Dartmouth, suddenly caught fire and exploded.

The machine was completely wrecked, but force of the blast hurled the crew of four sufficiently far from the plane to escape death.

RAIN HALTS 3RD GAME OF SERIES

Steady Downpour Forces Landis to Postpone Start of Play in Brooklyn.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — (AP)—Commissioner K. M. Landis called off the third game of the World Series today because of rain.

The rain began about 9 a. m., and although it slackened off considerably in mid-morning, it never stopped entirely. Judge Landis inspected the playing surface at Ebbets field before deciding to call it off.

The third game will be played at Ebbets field tomorrow.

The series is right back where it was before the first ball was thrown. Neither team has the edge. Each has placed an ace—Ruffing by the Yanks and Wyatt by the Dodgers—and won with him. From now on the result is in the laps of the gods.

Drawing up even with the Yanks yesterday was no small feat when it's remembered that the Bronx Bombers had won 10 straight World Series games and hadn't suffered a setback since King Carl Hubbell plastered a 7-3 defeat on them in the third game of the 1937 series.

And coming from arrears to beat the Yanks after they have you down, 2-0, and almost half the game over, is something the flabrous faithful have a right to crow over.

The big lesson of the Dodgers' 3 to 2 victory yesterday is that the Bums are dead game and are not going to roll over and play dead as some of the National League representatives have in past years when the Yanks swarmed all over them.

'NOT LICKED,' INDUSTRY SAYS OF 'CRISIS' HERE

Leaders Disclose Employment In Mansfield 3,000 Higher Than In 1939.

DISCUSS CAPITAL STORY

Westinghouse Announces 300 More Face Furlough as Result of OPM Order.

"Mansfield isn't licked." That was the reply today of the city's business and industrial leaders to the survey made by Alfred Friendly, staff writer for the Washington Post, who wrote that Mansfield was in a critical position because many of its manufacturing plants used materials on which the government has placed priorities—and of which there is a shortage—while its manufacturing machinery was not generally of a type that would lend itself to defense work.

Robert C. Remy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, issued a statement today in which he pointed out that there are at present more than 12,000 industrial workers employed in Mansfield, as compared to only 9,000 two years ago.

Of those 12,000, some 2,000 are working on defense contracts, and new defense contracts are being obtained steadily. (Tappan Stove yesterday announced receipt of an $80,000 defense order.)

Meanwhile, industrial executives were still bending every effort to obtain further defense contracts, and Remy, commenting on this phase of the situation, said that if just a few of the contracts now being sought were landed, most of the danger of unemployment would be over.

One factory, he pointed out, has bid on 31 contracts, and although it has been awarded only two, still has not given up its chances of landing others.

Taking steps to cut refrigerator production — one of the OPM orders that has contributed to Mansfield's difficulties — Westinghouse announced today that 300 more employees would be furloughed on Oct. 18. This will bring to 1,000 the number laid off in the past two weeks at Mansfield's largest plant.

Fuehrer Claims Area Four Times Greater Than England Taken, Restates Aims In European Broadcast From Sportspalast In Berlin.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Russia already has been beaten, Adolf Hitler declared today in a Europe-wide broadcast from the Berlin Sportspalast.

Repeating his contentions that Russia was preparing to attack Germany and hoped to destroy all Europe, the German fuehrer said his surprise attack on Russia beforehand had saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of German soldiers.

He conceded, however, that "we made a mistake about one thing: we did not know how gigantic the preparations of this opponent against Germany had been."

Hitler gave these figures as an example of the scope of the campaign in Russia: "We have made about 2,500,000 prisoners. About 22,000 guns have been captured, not counting those destroyed. More than 18,000 tanks and 15,500 planes have been destroyed. We have captured an area four times as great as England. More than 800,000 kilometers have been covered by our soldiers."

Hitler, broadcasting his regular appeal for the Nazis' ninth annual winter relief fund late today, declared that his aims since he came to power had been three: "The inner consolidation of our people; to bring about the equality of our people; to bring about the equality of Germany among the states of the world; and to destroy bolshevism."

The only nation which refused to see "the greatness of our aims" was the British empire, he said. "But it should be stated that this opposition emanates, not so much from the English nation as a whole, but from a group of hate-inspired statesmen."

"Thus, since peaceful understanding was spurned by this group, war was inevitable."

The fuehrer opened his remarks in the packed Sportspalast in Berlin by saying he had come especially from the eastern front, where he was directing operations against the enemy, to make this speech.

"These (operations) will smash the opponent in the east," he said. England, he said, "was promising to help everyone, but now that has all changed. We don't hear any more of England offering help, but England is asking help from others."

Hitler said he knew how hard it was to gain victory and offered peace, but the warmonger, Churchill, to make this speech.

HUNTERS FINED

Mansfielders In Court For Not Having Guns Plugged.

With the duck hunting season in its third day, two Mansfield hunters were arraigned in Municipal court this morning on charges of violation of the state's game laws.

Alphonse Wilborn, 68 Raymond avenue, and Fred Ickert, Mansfield R. D. 5, were both arrested yesterday afternoon by Game Warden J. R. Vanara on charges of hunting ducks with guns capable of shooting more than three loaded shells at a time.

Wilborn and Ickert had guns which could shoot six shells and had neglected to plug the guns as required by state law to allow no more than three shells to be loaded.

Both men pleaded guilty in court today and were fined $15 and costs each by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

child, made all conciliation impossible.
"Therefore, I decided to fight the battle which will determine the course of the next hundred years."
The British, he said, "incited against us not only here in Europe, but also in the new world."
They said they were going to get the necessary help from there under any circumstances.
Nevertheless, he said, "it will be obvious that Berlin has not been conquered, that Germany has not been invaded, but that in two years one country after another has been conquered by German arms."

Speaking over a radio network that spanned the Axis and German-occupied and dominated countries, Hitler said that sending an ambassador to Moscow in 1939 was "the greatest humiliation for me," but asserted he kept his obligations and the other side did not.
"Their policy was full of treachery."
Hitler said the German nation had not known what was happening in the east before June 22 and "any hint would have cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of our comrades."
"I therefore decided to take the first step myself."
"I had to take the decision in my own conscience and put confidence in my people."

Mayor of Prague Condemned to Death

BERLIN—(AP)—The mayor of Prague, Otakar Klapska, has been condemned to death by the people's court on charges of plotting rebellion, apparently in a conspiracy with the condemned premier of the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate, General Alois Eliass, Dienst aus Deutschland reported today.
This agency, with close official connections, quoted Prague sources saying that Elias had drawn Klapska into a plot.
Elias, also under sentence of death, has taken the only possible appeal from his verdict—to Adolf Hitler himself.

Klapska, in turn, was accused of recruiting other municipal officials to join against the German administration in the protectorate.
(The German-dominated government of Slovakia, bordering Bohemia-Moravia, was reported to have decided death for any person convicted of sabotage.)
(Advices in Budapest said a Communist was executed in former Yugoslavia today for outlawed activity.)

Nazi Shot, Arrest of 15 Ordered

BERLIN—(AP)—Gen. Alexander Von Falkenhausen, commanding German occupation troops in Belgium and northern France, ordered the arrest of 15 more hostages today in reprisal for the shooting of two German policemen at Tournai, Belgium, and announced a merciless campaign of retaliation against anti-German element.

"I am forced to order that the death penalty shall be mercilessly inflicted in all cases, as provided by law," Falkenhausen said in one of three decrees.
"This applies in particular to illegal possession of arms, espionage, sabotage and acts of violence of every kind against the German armed forces."

At the same time it was announced that German military authorities had arrested 35 "Communists" in the Amiens area of occupied France, had ordered six more arrests, and were investigating 30 other persons to decide whether they should be arrested.

Commissioner Claims Acquittal Without Foundation.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Charges in a Perry county habeas corpus action that the state pardon and parole commission was abusing its powers in failing to hear the parole appeal of a convicted Sandusky county bank robber were described as without foundation today by Commissioner E. E. Everett.
The action was brought at New Lexington by Theodore Albert, seeking his release from the Junction City penitentiary brick plant where he is serving part of a 20-year-to-life sentence for complicity in the $12,554 Woodville bank stickup Dec. 14, 1934.
Albert's petition contended that he was convicted on perjured testimony, and that the commission refused to grant him a parole hearing even when "proof of innocence was positive."

In a violent two-day battle in the Ukraine, Soviet dispatches said the Germans left the field "strewn with corpses," and that the Dniester river was carrying away thousands of the invaders' dead.
While the Nazi high command reported tersely that operations were proceeding "successfully," military advices reaching London indicated that Germany's revised war plans might start a new drive toward Moscow from the Ukraine, veering north from the bitterly-contested Kharkov sector in the Donets river basin.

CANBERRA—Labor Leader John Curtin accepted a commission to form a new Australian government today shortly after Prime Minister Arthur W. Fadden tendered his cabinet's resignation following defeat on a motion regarded by the government as one of confidence.

Fadden submitted his cabinet's resignation to the governor-general, Lord Gowrie, soon after being defeated on the confidence motion 36 votes to 33.

Bombs Destroy Six Paris Synagogues

VICHY, Unoccupied France—(AP)—Six synagogues were blown up in Paris this morning.

The explosions were caused by bombs which destroyed the interiors of the buildings and left only the walls standing.

Bombs which had been placed in a seventh synagogue were located and removed safely.
The synagogue bombings apparently were the work of right-wing terrorists, observers said. The bombings came as French and German authorities pressed a drive to quell opposition to their collaboration policy.

Kaltfleisch announced that La Guardia's basic plan will be followed as closely as possible. First step in the LaGuardia plan is the setting up of a civilian defense office, where voluntary "enlistments" can be made.

The general committee will then examine the volunteers and place them in the group to which their talents are best suited. In addition to the actual combat defense, the plan includes opportunities for a unit program, recreational activities, a consumers program, education and informal study groups, a health field, family security and child welfare.

Kaltfleisch said that the following representative citizens had been named to serve on the civilian defense committee:
Paul R. Tappan, president of the Manufacturers club; Robert C. Remy, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Ray M. Calene, president of the Retail Merchants association; Milo Heiber, chairman of the Richland county Red Cross chapter; Sam V. Even if the OPM order had not come through, this would have been a slack time at Westinghouse, due to seasonal model changes in refrigerators.
Moreover, even with the 43.2 per cent reduction in refrigerator output ordered by OPM Westinghouse will produce more units in 1942 than during 1939, Chamber of Commerce figures showed.

LOUDONVILLE—The Hanover Grange met Wednesday evening at the Grange hall, northeast of town, with the master, Walter Wolf, in the chair. At the business meeting final plans were made for a lunch stand at the fair, Oct. 7-8-9.

At the lecture hour the Future Homemakers 4-H club of Holmes county and the Sew-So 4-H club of Ashland county displayed their summer work and modeled the dresses they had made. During the social hour there was dancing and several musical selections.
The juvenile grange held its regular meeting at the same time with the juvenile matron Miss Ruth Lang in charge.
The next meeting will be a Halloween masquerade party, Oct. 15. The senior's 4-H clubs will present a program.
The Womens Missionary society of the Presbyterian church held their luncheon dinner meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Mary Kiplinger. The call to worship was given by the president, Mrs. Fred Heffelfinger, who also conducted the business session. A vocal solo was given by Mrs. John Halabaut. Mrs. Earl Simmons was in charge of the Mission study theme, "Christianity and Democracy in America." Foreign theme, "Christians the World Over" and other papers were read by Mrs. Ralph Tschantz and Mrs. J. A. Helbert.

Announcements were made concerning the meeting to be held in the Clear Fork church on Butler road. The November meeting will be a Thank offering in charge of Mrs. Richard Geiselman.

The regular meeting of the Missionary society of the Church of the Nazarene was held Wednesday evening in the church parlors.

James Morris gave a poem "The Missionary Call," a paper was read by Mrs. Evelyn Banbury.

Mrs. Vera Andrews and son Randolph of Cincinnati will spend the week-end here with relatives.

CHAPTER XVII.

When they eventually got to the mechanics of organization, it was the judge himself who nominated Martin Deale for secretary, "to begin at once keeping detailed minutes of these proceedings." And Martin was thus the first officer elected. His robbery last night and the resultant stir about it was at least a part reason for his prominence. He accepted with a speech quite in keeping with his position then moved to the front table to begin work with pencil and paper.

With nominations then opened for president of the Guardianship Society, Dr. Fonz Bane arose to nominate "that flower of southern and Texas womanhood, Mrs. Millicent Mayfield, in the full and confident belief that she deserves the honor as one most worthy of it and most likely to command prestige."

Martin's face brightened happily. He stood up to lead the applause, and in half a minute Mrs. Mayfield had been elected by acclamation. A "cabinet" of seven was then chosen to serve with her, and Martin—with growing enthusiasm for this new cause—arose to suggest that they now go in a body to inform Mrs. Mayfield of her election, and perhaps continue their discussion in her fine old colonial home. That motion, too, carried unanimously.

Judge Brookfield suggested that they walk. A delegation of almost 30 leading citizens walking down the street would serve as initial advertisement to Rangeville of their strength and determination, said he, shrewdly. Perhaps a few others might join them enroute. And the Mayfield home was only six blocks off North Marshall.

The men were in high spirits as they walked. Judge Brookfield, too portly and too dignified for speed, set the pace and led in the conversation as well. Martin walked near him. Of course people stared. Motorists turned in their seats to gaze curiously at them. A few dogs barked. Presently a comet's tail of children lagged them, and behind scenes housewives began to telephone. The delegates themselves were impervious to all this, however. They were audibly admiring their streets and suggesting just where—on the far edge of town—should be set the line beyond which no more oil wells might be bored.

Then all at once consternation seized them.

They came past Mrs. Halton's great hedge of cape jasmine and privet to Mrs. Mayfield's front gate—and beheld workmen erecting a thing of steel right on the Mayfield lawn itself!

Four trucks stood nearby, and piles of eight-inch iron pipe had been dumped. The steel thing was a skeleton already up more than 25 feet.

"A derrick!" Martin Deale breathed. "An oil derrick, right in Mrs. Mayfield's yard!"

"Gentle-men!" said Judge Brookfield, quietly, holding both hands high to command attention. "Any further discussion here would be most unseemly. I suggest that he return to my quarters forthwith."

Immediately the delegation headed back toward town. The men had a sense of embarrassment, even resentment; they had elected Mrs. Millicent Mayfield president, and although it had been in her absence they felt that she had betrayed them. The widow of Dan Mayfield, of all people, to permit an oil derrick on her lawn! It was unthinkable.

There had been almost 30 delegates, and an equal number of just plain curious folk had gathered with them. Some were grinning, some looked extremely sober of face. Little snatches of discussion and counter-discussion were heard from the group even as it walked back down the shady avenue to town.

"Everybody's oil mad! Everybody!"

"... broke in the Wiggins house at night and—"

"Prices shooting sky high while—"

"... and three out of every four people are strangers with—"

"... the town water pressure is getting dangerously low."

"... hold-ups and robberies, even young Martin Deale who—"

"Money is one thing but respectability must—"

Presently they were like a floating, humming group of bees migrating, staying close together oddly beligerent as they moved. Each man wanted to express his observations and opinions and did so. Others nodded, some swore with agreement.

"There's even a move on foot to pipe gas right down all the streets and to every dwelling," said one man, "in spite of the danger and smell of the stuff!"

Like a jury they filed back into Judge Brookfield's office and sat down. The judge, near Martin at the front desk again, was wiping his glasses and scowling, when Martin stood up to rest, mother? You need it."

"Aren't you?"

"I wasn't sleepy." The slender Lillian was undled now and her mother studied her form.

"You look as if you had lost some weight, dear."

"I have. Seven pounds."

"I told you that you were not eating well. You must—"

"I eat all I want. It's just the weather, I guess."

Millicent Mayfield's lips worked in and out, worriedly. She sat on the edge of Lillian's bed. The girl's face was long, too long, as she slipped a blue chenille robe around herself and knotted the belt cord. It had been long for days. Mrs. Mayfield knew. Long, which meant sober. Utterly unlike the vivacious person that had been Lillian Mayfield.

"Honey, aren't you and Thad both just so excited?" Mother tried to force a mood. "You never mention it."

"Oh, Oh, yes of course, mother."

"He's an awfully nice boy."

"Yes."

Lillian pattered in and out of the bathroom. She had cut off the water. She draped herself and her robe over the dressing table bench now and began to trim at her nails, abstractly. She didn't say anything so her mother opened another conversation tack.

"Dr. Tower never comes out any more, does he? Do you see him downtown? He must be very busy."

"He is busy. Dr. Watkins said he came here at the opportune moment. He won't do any of the gambling on oil leases and—and—all that kind of speculation. He works hard and is building up a marvelous practice. He—"

"Is he?"

"Yes. Did you hear about the floater's family, Mother?"

"No, dear. Tell me?" She had revived Lillian noticeably.

"Eleven of them, coming in hunting work, and the mother having a new baby right in their old trailer without a top. Dallas spent nearly 24 hours with them and didn't even send them a bill."

"Himmm! What else did he say?"

"He didn't say that. It was Dr. Watkins told me."

"I see."

"He even sent out a lot of groceries and some clothing, mother."

"Dr. Watkins? It's just like him to—"

"No, mother! Dallas. But Dr. Watkins heard about it, and was he proud of Dal!"

"Himmm."

"What?"

"Himmmmm?"

Wondering about the 1942 cars?

Here is Buick's superb solution to the problems posed by making our national defense, as it should be, Industrial America's No. 1 job

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE

Our assignment: Building Ford & Whitley valve-in-head aircraft engines for defense use.

It was no time to duck or dodge the facts. So we didn't try.

Instead we said—these being the materials critical in the defense program, we'll do our planning for 1942 with that foremost in mind.

Not merely for an "acceptable" car—certainly not for any "ersatz" number.

We had to have a real and representative Buick. One we could be proud of. One able enough, active enough, durable enough to serve till annual new models are the rule again.

We resolved on a 1942 automobile of such merit as could carry the Buick reputation without fault until other new Buicks, however far off, could come along to refresh it.

Now we're announcing those 1942 cars.

Why waste words telling you how good they are! You can't put language in the gas tank and learn either how many or how enjoyable are the miles you'll get per gallon.

There's a better answer—you drive these cars themselves. Come on, do that! Put your own yardstick on their quality.

It would be a shame, for you and for us, to have you miss the dreadnaught Buick we've built to stand up successfully to the toughest job in years.

No other car has ALL THIS FOR YOU IN 'FORTY-TWO

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1941

Congress is finding it difficult to prevent inflation without removing the principal causes.

It should also be kept in mind that Mr. Morgenthau proposes 6 per cent profit as a limit—not as a guarantee.

When there is talk about the possibility of bombing Rome it should be remembered that Rome wasn't built in a day—but neither was London or Moscow, for that matter.

Taxes Will Still Fall Short

ASTRONG argument in favor of greatest possible reduction in non-defense government spending is found in the new tax bill. That bill will reach down into income brackets never touched before by direct federal taxation. It greatly increases taxes in all brackets, and on all industries and individuals. It is the stiffest tax bill in American history. Yet it will produce less than $4,000,000,000 additional a year—and arms spending alone, according to estimates, will soon reach $36,000,000,000 a year!

There is but one way this country can be saved from a burden of debt and taxation that would ruin us as surely as would military defeat. That way is by cutting every non-defense item in the budget to the absolute bone. Government should end its competitive program against highly-taxed private business, on which it depends for the bulk of its tax revenue. Government in banking, in the electric power field, in real estate, in farming, and scores of other projects, is destroying its future source of tax revenue.

Distribution of Sub-Contracts

LONG before sub-contracting became a serious problem, says the Chicago News, it was widely practiced in the Chicago ordinance district. Through a happy combination of co-operation on the part of eight big concerns and the vigorous work of the local OPM and Army authorities, 1,988 little businesses through the district have had sub-contracts covering 44 to 69 per cent of the prime contracts.

The contracts, totalling nearly $75,000,000, are for tanks, guns, engines, troop trucks and ammunition. The small concerns supply "bits and pieces" for the big contractors.

The system was developed after a canvass of the plant, machine and labor resources of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and North and South Dakota. A cross index of 3,000 firms of all kinds and capacities was prepared after a careful survey of individual factories. Then their facilities were called to the attention of prime contractors every time a big new job came along.

There have been three principal benefits from this course. Thousands of workers have been employed who might otherwise have become idle. Hundreds of small industries have been saved from the necessity of shutting shop because of priorities and are going at full capacity. Delivery dates for the defense goods have been moved ahead. The system could stand further extension beyond the Chicago area.

Increase In Traffic Fatalities

TRAFFIC DEATHS over the nation are moving toward a new high for this year, despite all the emphasis that has been placed on safety.

Report of the National Safety council shows that 3,910 traffic deaths occurred in August this year, an increase of 21 per cent from the same month last year, while the eight-month toll was 18 per cent above the same period in 1940.

At the National Safety Congress, to be held in Chicago next week, ten thousand safety leaders will buckle down to the task of finding additional ways to impress the importance of safe driving on the minds of American motorists and 125 national organizations will co-operate in the effort.

President Roosevelt recently emphasized the need for a national safety campaign against accidents hampering the defense program and the ghastly record of needless waste of lives on the highways stresses the importance of his appeal.

Education, enforcement and engineering continue as the three great forces for eventual reduction of traffic fatalities and injuries. Whatever co-operation individual motorists will give in carefully operating their own cars will be helpful.

Extend Rose-Blooming Season

THE TEXAS ROSE FESTIVAL, to be held at Tyler from Oct. 9 to 12, is a reminder that roses are not the proud possession of a single month or place. Many old-fashioned roses bloomed mostly in June in the northern, and earlier in the southern, areas of the United States. The horticulturists who improve on nature have extended the season. Nowadays there are roses that bloom for many weeks, their season ending only with the arrival of cold weather.

Portland, Ore., may dispute with Tyler, Tex., the title of "Rose Garden of America," but both places, as well as scores of other cities, towns and villages have their lovely rose gardens, their flower shows and their commercial growers of fine roses. Now, when large numbers of Americans are thinking of harvest time, pumpkin pies and approaching Thanksgiving day, it gives a final delightful and gracious farewell to summer to devote several days to an autumn rose festival.

Upturn In Farm Values

ACCORDING to the Farm Credit Administration there has been a sharp rise in sales of farms. Applications for loans to buy farms increased 50 per cent in some states in the first half of this year. Gains in the dollar volume of such sales were 85 per cent above the same period in 1940.

Farms have long suffered from depressed values. There have been years with virtually no sales, or sales only at deflated values. The present activity is therefore considered wholesome.

The governor of FCA sounds a note of warning, however. A runaway inflation of farm values is as bad as any other type of inflation. This country is close enough to the World War boom in land values and the subsequent collapse and widespread farm bankruptcy to profit by the lessons of that period. The FCA warns buyers and lending agencies alike to be cautious. Loans should be made on "normal values," not on speculative hopes.

A newly invented auto horn will not sound except when the car is in motion—but how's such a device to clear a traffic jam?

Detroit resents the intended compliment that their Tigers are as good as the Cleveland Indians.

Listen World!

Sergeant York

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE" . . . how often you hear that expression nowadays. They roll so easily, those five words. So easily that few of us stop to think what they really mean or actually cost.

But now something has happened that tells the meaning and the cost of "The American Way of Life" . . . tells it so plainly, yet poignantly that it will live forever in American brain and blood.

Yes, I'm writing of the picture "Sergeant York." I'd seen a preview. A preview that left me different . . . wanting to begin again . . . longing to find the trail I've often lost.

There I go—getting maudlin. But it isn't really maudlin. When a thing goes deep into your heart . . . when it awakens something that has been asleep for a long time . . . well, maybe you can be excused for using extra adjectives. But there were no extra adjectives in Sergeant York, himself, nor in the movie that so faithfully records the makings of a man—and a nation.

I'd gone expecting—what? I don't know. Something sky-rockety, I suppose. As an English-Irish-Scottish-American would. Al, cylinders working and no holds barred. But instead—

They were singing. A crude, backwoods church, filled with people singing. Simple, friendly folk who, on week days borrowed butter, swapped gossip and dress patterns, maybe nipped a gulp of moonshine or cheated a bit at checkers on the side. But now it was Sunday and they were singing—

"When the roll is called up yonder 'I'll be there.'"

Out of the hills they'd come . . . out of shabby homes and meager destitutes. But, as they sang, the meagerness was forgotten. They were seeing something better than their limited lives. They were going home . . . going to a home they'd never seen but where there'd be enough of joy and abundance for them all.

Remember that homesick feeling? Remember that hunger that's haunting you today . . . that hunger for a bigger, better plan! That's how "The American Way of Life" was born. Out of hunger . . . out of a need for friendliness and fair play.

Only Alvin York wasn't honin' for any far-off heavenly home. He was honin' to go hell-raisin'—right here and now, and plenty! He had no wish to be regimented by man or God—until he "got religion" . . . until he saw that religion must mean fair play and friendliness and freedom to every man alive.

So Alvin York blundered on to the "American Way of Life." Wind on his face . . . ploughshare under his hands . . . wonder in his simple, farm-hand eyes—so Alvin York found God—and America. And risked his life to serve them both in a dark and dangerous hour.

"Trustin' in things a heap bigger than me"—that's how Alvin York put his conversion. Reachin' out toward a stronger, saner scheme of things. That's why he was able to perform a miracle. It wasn't a miracle to Sergeant York, however. It was an inevitable result.

A hero? Yes. But heroism didn't come to him in one, flaming impulse. It came to him through endless hours of plain duty . . . in simple devotion to the things that seemed right. It came to him—and it stayed by him—in the great test that was only the sum total of all the lesser tests. He was great in the final challenge because he had been true and loyal in all the smaller sacrifices and demands.

"Sergeant York"—he will live forever through this picture. Here is no acting. Here is something dangerously, divinely close to the unveiling of the Host. Here, an American—all true Americans—fight the good fight and keep the faith—for the American Way of Life. Not because it is dramatic or has "box-office appeal." But because it is the fair and friendly thing . . . the finest way of life that man has ever dared follow.

Forget your sophistication. Forget your fears and feuds. Go to see that picture as a little child would go . . . a little lonely child who's lost his way in the dark. Here is "somethin' better than you or me."

Here is a light—from Home!

Health Questions Are Answered

—By DR. CLENDENING

Mrs. J. A. D.: "About two months ago I acquired the taste for head lettuce. Since then I have been eating two or three heads every day. I eat all other foods too, but must have my lettuce. I am not pregnant. Is there any harm in lettuce?"

Answer: Not the slightest harm in lettuce. Eat all you want. It's too bad other people don't have such good habits.

E. W.: "I would appreciate some information on the drug benzidine sulphate."

Answer: Benzidine is a diffusible drug which stimulates the mental and other processes. It has been used by students who are studying for examinations and by athletes in competition. Many reports of harmful reactions are recorded from such use. It is a dangerous drug to use regularly or, in fact, to use at all except under a physician's directions.

M. S.: "Do cataracts of the eye usually follow both eyes? My son has had a cataract since he was very young, the aftermath of a childhood illness. Is it possible that sometime the other eye may be affected?"

Answer: A cataract in a young person in one eye has no tendency to produce a cataract in the other. This is not true of older people, but cataracts do not necessarily cause blindness.

E. W.: "Are there any objections to the daily use of mineral oil over a long period of time? Does it absorb Vitamins A and D in the system? Would its daily use affect the eyes?"

Answer: In my opinion mineral oil is the best preparation to use for chronic constipation. I do not believe it absorbs any vitamins or prevents their leaving the system, nor does its use affect the eyes.

L. G. M.: "What is meant by subnormal temperature and is it dangerous?" 2. "And is it injurious to your health to wear a corset?"

Answer: 1. Subnormal temperature is a temperature below 98.6 degrees F. It indicates a somnolent condition of vitality which may be due to dropped stomach or a poor posture, but is not dangerous. 2. A corset is of great benefit to the health of a number of people with dropped stomach and poor abdominal muscles.

Timely Editorial

Plight of Small Towns.

Big business, contributing to the war effort, is getting the materials. Little business is not.

There are thousands of little factories over the Nation which are feeling the pinch and unless they can continue to get materials they will be forced to close down and put men out of work.

The small town will take the jolt. Large centers will continue to prosper in the presence of huge payrolls.

The small businessman is essential to Americanism, to thousands of jobholders, to Uncle Sam, for he is a great taxpayer. The small business must stay in business, despite the war effort, and the powers that be should see that it receives material and goods to keep operating.—Red Oak (Iowa) Express.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Effort to Appease Japan Kept China From Soviet Conference

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—A good barometer of the duke and Wal-lie's standing at the British embassy was the fact that the newsreel men were ordered to take no pictures of the duchess either in the embassy, or with any part of the building showing in the background.

And it took the duke himself to countermand the order. As the newsreel men were setting up their apparatus far back on the lawn, he brushed aside a young embassy diplomat who was handling arrangements and declared:

"I'll take care of this myself. I'm an old hand at newsreels, I've been in them so often."

He then informed the cameramen that they could take a shot of himself and the duchess walking out of the embassy into the yard. The young embassy diplomat backed off in confusion.

Despite the awkwardness of the situation, the duke put on a cheerful front, chatting freely with the photographers between retakes. Once he said: "I don't think I've got on the right kind of tie. I know you fellows like to focus on a tie and this one isn't bright enough."

He wore a conservative two-tone blue cravat, with diagonal stripes.

As the newsreel men were winding up their work, the young diplomat tried to square matters by suggesting that the duchess have something to say for the sound tracks. But the duke gave him another brush-off.

Delays to Russia.

THERE were two inside reasons for the slowness of the U. S. Mission to Moscow in sitting down at the conference table with Joe Stalin. One was the technical difficulty of the flight across Germany. The other was China.

The flight from London to Moscow is not the easiest thing in the world, since about a thousand miles is across enemy territory. The British bombers which make the flight use as much of the night as possible over German territory and also go up to tremendous altitudes.

The U. S. mission to Moscow also had to fly in sections—three different planes, flown on different days, with the time of departure kept a dark secret. And the last sections were delayed in London.

The Chinese delay of the mission to Moscow occurred before Averill Harriman left Washington, when it was proposed that China, nearest friendly neighbor to Russia, should sit in with Harriman, Stalin and the others.

But the state department objected—and for a highly unexpected reason. Appeasement-minded diplomats inside the state department claimed that a Chinese mission to Moscow would offend Japan. The United States was trying to woo Japan away from the Axis, they argued, so nothing must be done to rub the Japanese fur the wrong way.

In the end, Japan reaffirmed its partnership in the Axis; but only after the U. S. mission to Moscow already had started, also after Nazi victories in Russia seemed on the upgrade once again. So the appeasement policy of the state department got nowhere.

Note—Key to Japanese policy of friendship for the United States or allegiance to Germany always is the barometer of Nazi military success. If Hitler is winning, Japan will stick by him; and if the U. S. A. looks stronger, it is vice versa.

U. S. Military Attache.

GENERAL John Magruder was recently appointed head of the U. S. military mission to China in order to heal the slight to Chiang Kai-shek when he was not permitted to send an envoy to the Harriman conference in Moscow. But General Magruder is more famous for another chapter in his life.

When he was U. S. military attache to Switzerland in 1938, Magruder sent a report to the war department on the march of Hitler's mechanized forces to conquer Austria. In this report he said that Nazi tanks and trucks were of poor quality and that many of them had broken down en route to Vienna.

This U. S. military report was

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Restaurant men have a belief that "location" is essential to success in New York. They place great stress on just the right "location." They say, "If a man can find the right spot, he can't miss. He'll make a killing."

Unfortunately, this isn't true. Location doesn't mean very much if you haven't got what the customers want after they get there.

The busiest bar in all New York, I think, is the Astor bar, at 45th street on Broadway. I have never seen it when it wasn't crowded, not once in all the times I have ambled past it on Broadway.

Just across the street, on the site exactly opposite, used to be what is remembered as the International Casino. The International had not one bar but four bars, one of which was a winding bar that wound up the spiral stairway from the ground floor to the mezzanine—the idea being that if the weary traveler exhausted himself on the journey upstairs he could always pause at any time and refresh himself.

BUT despite the elaborate appointment to these bars, their smooth lighting, their streamline waiters and hidden orchestras which played enticing music, they failed. . . . No crowds ever gathered there. No one seemed to care whether they were there or not. Barely 50 feet away, the Astor remained crowded just as it always has been and is today. What was the answer? Not "location" surely; they had the same location—Times Square, Broadway, the heart of the world. For some perhaps indefinable reason, the International didn't have what it takes. The Astor did.

IT SEEMS to me there is another lesson in "location" to be learned from the Diamond Horse-shoe, which is in the basement of the Paramount hotel, in west 47th street.

When Billy Rose announced his intentions of opening the Horse-shoe in this basement many of his friends went to him and earnestly tried to dissuade him. "You are making a mistake," they told him. "A very bad mistake. You're away from Broadway—on the west side, where almost nobody ever goes. Furthermore you're in a basement. . . . People hate basements, especially since repeal . . . that's the worst possible location you could have."

After thanking his friends for this counsel, Billy went right ahead with his plans. He opened. That was more than two and a half years ago. This off-the-path basement of Billy's today is known as a sort of local Crockford lode. It's a gold mine. And if it has a "location" problem, it is the probability of the customers obtaining locations close to the ringside.

So the matter of location in New York doesn't matter very much, not in this observer's opinion anyway. It's a question of what you've got, not where you've got it. I can show you a dozen places in almost any section of town you may care to name that bears this out.

A Farmer's Diary

Deserted House

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IHAD no thought of stopping at the ruined tenant house of Old Aunt Mary's, but the east wind that blew through the vacant windows, the odor of grapes on the leaning trellis by the door, the banners of five-leaved ivy that climbed like a braided rope clear to the eaves, urged me to park by the ditch and enter.

The house must have been vacant many years, yet when I stepped in through the glassless window, I smelled the odors that cling to such old-time dwellings. In the kitchen, at the place where the corner cupboard set, I thought I could detect the scent of a half-filled applebutter crock, a fading hint of homemade cheese. Rusted spikes on the lowbuilt ceiling told of strings of drying "schnitz" (quartered apples) and curing clumps of garlic.

The sills had rotted out below and portions of the flooring were torn up. Pieces of pottery lay beneath and parts of a broken frame to an old picture. In a little niche at one corner, I saw an arc of a small child's homemade wooden wagon wheel, a rusted metal pony and a faded patch of an infant's blouse, with a small white button in the center. Almost buried in the dirt glistened the white handle of a tiny top-teacup and by the side, a doll two inches long, cast from the same material.

I sat down on the step and tried to visualize the time when this old house had been a home. I wondered if some aged lady might be living whose memory still returns to this battered kitchen. I wondered whose those dimpled childish fingers were that played with these toys, when they were complete and new.

I wondered if that child did not still enjoy the memory of roses every June upon the grassy lawn, immediately picked up by the British who placed great confidence in the word of a U. S. military attache.

Today, Hitler's tanks and armored cars are the model for modern warfare.

British Naval Strength.

HOW hard pressed the British are for destroyers and convoy ships was illustrated the other day when the French steamer Pasteur arrived in the United States after crossing the Atlantic with only one destroyer as its protector.

The Pasteur is one of the newest French Line vessels, launched in 1939. She is a beautiful boat of 30,000 tons and it was remarkable that the British would risk a ship of this size and importance in the dangerous waters of the North Atlantic.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Job.

AFRIEND of Mrs. Roosevelt came to see her at the White House to talk about the First Lady's new job in the Office of Civilian Defense. She was much impressed at Mrs. Roosevelt's grasp of the problems, but a little disturbed at the boldness of some of her plans.

So thinking of Director LaGuardia, the friend remonstrated: "If you introduce such bold ideas, what will the mayor say?"

The First Lady smiled. "My dear," she said, "I don't think the mayor will say 'No' to me."

Note: Mrs. Roosevelt cannot spend full time at her desk in the O.C.D. and during her absences, the job will be held down by her good friend Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, wife of the secretary of the treasury.

PUPILS BOOK SHOW, DANCE

Senior High Classes To See Magician; Dance Planned Following Game.

Two entertainment features are taking the attention of pupils at Senior high school.

One, a magic show, takes place Monday while the other, a dance, starts tonight after the Sandusky-Mansfield football game.

Sponsored by the January class of the school, Leeston, the magician, will present his show Monday at 10 a. m. All pupils having tickets to the show in their possession will be excused from classes to see him. Proceeds from the ticket sale will be used to augment the January class treasury, Jack Shiplet, class president, said.

Starting as soon as the football game with Sandusky is completed in the Tiger stadium, the dance will be held in the school gym and will be open to the public. Herman Bishop, assistant to the principal, urged that parents and adults attending the function note a school rule which states that the building must be emptied by midnight.

POLE TAKES ROOT.

WANTS CITY TO SET UP FUND TO SEED AIRPORT

Manager, Citing Personal Cost of $80,000, Says $962 Needed To Condition Runways.

City council will be asked at its October meeting Tuesday evening to appropriate $962 to permit the re-seeding of grass on runways at Mansfield's municipal airport.

James R. (Bud) Harrington, airport manager, has written council asking that bare spots on the runways "which prevent operation during rainy weather" be covered.

Harrington said that in the removal of knolls and other rough spots on the runways recently, sod was removed. A check with the Department of Agriculture reveals that the remaining subsoil is of clay and will not support vegetation.

Harrington said he has consulted a nursery which estimates that the ground would cost $737 and the work of putting down the seed, $225. Council appropriated $500 three months ago for removing the knolls and rough spots from the runways.

Harrington stated that he had spent $80,000 of his own money and borrowed another $35,000 to help develop the airport. He pointed out that Morgantown, W. Va., a city of 20,000 persons, had recently set aside $2,000,000 for an airport program and that Springfield had started an $846,000 program. Harrington said that a city the size of Mansfield should spend about $5,000 annually for airport development.

The airport manager announced that he was already training flight instructors for the federal government and that a group of South American youths would be brought here soon for instruction so they could take over the piloting of South American lines recently taken away from German interests.

Harrington said that the government had decided to send a new class of students to Mansfield every seven weeks from all parts of the country and that the local port would provide one or two completely finished flight instructors for the Army and Navy every two weeks.

A LOT OF FIGURING

BECKLEY, W. Va. —(AP)—When W. E. King went to work back in 1907 for a lumber company, he found an old comptometer in the office. He has used it ever since, and can make it do almost anything but talk back. "I wouldn't think of trading my old comptometer for a new one," says King. "Not even even-steven."

Tells Club How Navy Would Help City's Jobless

Lt. Commander Drew L. Davies of the U. S. Navy, told Kiwanians at their luncheon meeting yesterday that in the event of an "employment blackout" in Mansfield many skilled mechanics or trained machinists would have excellent opportunities for continuing their trades, and maintaining steady employment through the Navy.

Taking for his topic, "Opportunity for Young America in the U. S. Navy," Davies outlined the requirements for naval service and the advantages resulting from pursuing such a course.

Stressing the need for technicians, he said that of the 10,000 men accepted monthly by the navy over half, received training, either basic or advanced, in special schools.

He emphasized the fact that by means of aptitude tests, each man is placed in the job he is best fitted for.

At the close of his talk the movie "Making Men O' War's Men" was shown to the club.

With Lt. Commander Davies were Ensign J. P. de Bauernfeld of Cleveland and Chief Machinist's Mate P. E. Rivers.

FIRE FIGHTING IN MANSFIELD GETS HIT AGAIN

One of City's Antique Trucks
Put Out of Service; Chief
Can't Get Parts.

Mansfield's fire apparatus is decrepit enough when it's in operating order but right now it's even worse.

Fire Chief Charles Seeburger announced today that one of the city's "more modern" pieces of fire equipment, a truck purchased 12 years ago, is out of commission for lack of parts.

Seeburger said that the government's national defense demands have prevented the department from getting quick service on parts needed to repair the truck.

Half of the parts ordered almost three weeks ago arrived this week but the rest failed to arrive. The fire chief said he expected a communication from the La France company, manufacturer of the disabled truck, today or tomorrow.

He pointed out however that it would not be possible to get the truck back in running condition until next week at least.

"We're just lucky that it isn't worse," said the chief. "If it had been the White or Packard truck which had broken down, we'd never get the parts. Neither of those companies manufactured fire trucks very long and are not too particular about stocking parts for the few they did put out."

Seeburger said that the older trucks could use repairs but that repairing them was of little use. "They're just about worn out," he said, "keeping them going is a full time job."

Even though the city has priority for fire equipment repairs, the receipt of parts is delayed because manufacturers are busy turning out new equipment for aid to Britain and for use in new army camps.

Passage of the half mill levy at the November election will relieve the fire equipment situation in Mansfield, the chief pointed out.

Nipped In Bud

Hardly had Broadway Rose, famed New York panderer with a reported annual income of $10,000, started her night's work in the theater district, when her begging was nipped in the bud. A patrolman, perhaps annoyed by a magazine article declaring she appeared immune from arrest, pinched her for disorderly conduct, and she spent the night in jail.

Hired Hand Cuts Hay All Day, But On Wrong Farm

FORT EDWARD, N. Y.—(INS)—Austin Williams, owner of the Harvest Farms in the Town of Moreau, near here, thought when he hired a man to cut 160 acres of hay on his property that it would be a good job done. All of his hay remains standing but a neighbor's 20-acre field has been cut.

Williams told the story this way. When the hired man reported for work Williams waved his hand in the direction of the 160 acres and said, "There it is, Go ahead." Then he departed for the day. Came nightfall and the owner returned home, expecting to find his employee well along on his 160-acre job. Instead the Williams crop still waved proudly in the breeze while the neighbor's hay field had been mowed as slick as a whistle.

It took some tall explaining and a good deal of persuasion, according to Williams, before the late neighbor, who had not planned on cutting his hay yet, was satisfied that everything was all right.

FIRE FIGHTING IN MANSFIELD GETS HIT AGAIN

One of City's Antique Trucks
Put Out of Service; Chief
Can't Get Parts.

Mansfield's fire apparatus is decrepit enough when it's in operating order but right now it's even worse.

Fire Chief Charles Seeburger announced today that one of the city's "more modern" pieces of fire equipment, a truck purchased 12 years ago, is out of commission for lack of parts.

Seeburger said that the government's national defense demands have prevented the department from getting quick service on parts needed to repair the truck.

Half of the parts ordered almost three weeks ago arrived this week but the rest failed to arrive. The fire chief said he expected a communication from the La France company, manufacturer of the disabled truck, today or tomorrow.

He pointed out however that it would not be possible to get the truck back in running condition until next week at least.

"We're just lucky that it isn't worse," said the chief. "If it had been the White or Packard truck which had broken down, we'd never get the parts. Neither of those companies manufactured fire trucks very long and are not too particular about stocking parts for the few they did put out."

Seeburger said that the older trucks could use repairs but that repairing them was of little use. "They're just about worn out," he said, "keeping them going is a full time job."

Even though the city has priority for fire equipment repairs, the receipt of parts is delayed because manufacturers are busy turning out new equipment for aid to Britain and for use in new army camps.

Passage of the half mill levy at the November election will relieve the fire equipment situation in Mansfield, the chief pointed out.

Nipped In Bud

Hardly had Broadway Rose, famed New York panhandler with a reported annual income of $10,000, started her night's work in the theater district, when her begging was nipped in the bud. A patrolman, perhaps annoyed by a magazine article declaring she appeared immune from arrest, pinched her for disorderly conduct, and she spent the night in jail.

Hired Hand Cuts Hay All Day, But On Wrong Farm

FORT EDWARD, N. Y.—(INS)—Austin Williams, owner of the Harvest Farms in the Town of Moreau, near here, thought when he hired a man to cut 160 acres of hay on his property that it would be a good job done. All of his hay remains standing but a neighbor's 20-acre field has been cut.

Williams told the story this way.

When the hired man reported for work Williams waved his hand in the direction of the 160 acres and said, "There it is. Go ahead." Then he departed for the day. Came nightfall and the owner returned home, expecting to find his employee well along on his 160-acre job. Instead the Williams crop still waved proudly in the breeze while the neighbor's hay field had been mowed as slick as a whistle.

It took some tall explaining and a good deal of persuasion, according to Williams, before the irate neighbor, who had not planned on cutting his hay yet, was satisfied that everything was all right.

GEN. JOHNSON: Third Defense Strike Called In 4 Days

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
NEW YORK—Here is a letter written by a man of prominence in one field of American endeavor to a man of prominence in quite a different field. I may say that I received a sympathetic response. Note that the letter was written two days before the Nova fight:

Joe Louis, heavy weight champion of the world.

"Green wood Lake, N. Y., Sept. 27th, 1941.

"Dear Mr. Baruch:

"I have been reclassified by the selective draft board, and I expect to be called into the service of my country. This may cause me to retire from the ring.

"But before I retire, I want to put up one more fight—the best of my career—to help my people.

"The hardest fight I ever had was against prejudice and intolerance. My people know what I mean. They are all fighting their way up, and I want to open the door of opportunity a little wider for them. The fight I propose to make will not be staged in an arena against one particular opponent, but out in the open across the country. If I could get a 'gate' as big as I've ever seen in the Yankee Stadium and turn it over to the department of race relations of the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America for the splendid work that department is doing on behalf of the negro people and better relations with their white neighbors, I'd feel like a real champion.

"I propose to start the 'gate' with my own contribution, and I want you to subscribe for a box, a ringside seat or other reservation. This is one purse which does not have to be shared with promoters or managers. Every cent will be used to better the condition of my people and in creating better human relations in America.

"Will you co-operate by sending your check or money order in any amount, payable to Frank H. Mann, treasurer, and mail it today? If you help me win, this time, I'll feel that I've won the greatest fight of my life. Thank you. Sincerely yours, (Signed) "Joe Louis."

I have no doubt from its contents that this same letter went to many people and that Joe didn't actually compose the very appealing missive.

To me that doesn't make any difference. Joe's conduct over the years in the most difficult kind of tests of courage, fortitude, sportsmanship and plain Americanism that could be given any man has made that letter possible and true. The very able phrasing wouldn't make a thing without that and couldn't be made to mean a thing.

Joe Louis never squawked, boasted, lied, faked, dodged a fight nor tried to milk his popularity for his personal advantage. He lifted a sport that in the hands of some of his white brethren had threatened to become a racket into a cleaner and more respectable atmosphere.

By example, he has done something more in the hard way than could ever be done in years of preaching. He has taken race-prejudice, as far as he is concerned, at least, out of the fight game. Considering the emotional nature of that field, this seems incredible. But sitting in at his Nova battle it seemed to me that most sympathies were with the champion and this was strange, not merely because there is a natural wolf-pack tendency to wish to see the leader downed, but also because Lou himself is far above the average type of white contender.

Town Topics.

WELL, kids, you can all relax now. The Cafe Society Register is out.

This is a yellow-lettered, green-bound volume, 228 pages thick and bristling with private telephone numbers which has been authorized, edited and prefaced by the handsome Emily Post of the bars and bistros, James McKinley Bryant. It is hot off the presses, and when you consider the flurry that is always caused by the conservative and comparatively dull Social Register when it is launched annually with a few names added, a few names dropped, you can imagine the talk, tears and tizzys that will result when this tome is perused around the ringsides.

Let's face it: Names have been left out.

Why?

You can just see them, standing in front of their boudoir mirrors in the chilly dawn that comes after La Martiniere has closed, asking themselves that. Why?

The First Nighters did pretty well. Herbert Bayard Swope and the Jules Brulatores and Gladys Swarthout and Frank Chapman and the William Rhinelanders Stewarts can all hold up their heads. Mickey Rooney is listed, and so is J. Edgar Hoover, but what of Gypsy Rose Lee? She didn't make it, kids.

Orrin Tucker and Tommy Tucker are listed, but Sophie Tucker isn't. Clifton Webb is down as a "dancer." That'll teach him to play Sheridan Whiteside!

Hart, Moss is listed, but Hart,

WAR WOUNDED BRING PEACE OVER CHANNEL

Truce Declared For Exchange of 3,000 Prisoners By British, Germans.

(By United Press)

NEW HAVEN, England — A truce descended on the English channel this afternoon—a strange peace that will continue until Tuesday when exchange of 3,000 British and German war wounded will be completed.

Two great hospital ships, flying the flag of the international Red Cross, rode at anchor in this south coast port.

The last boom of guns along the sun-drenched shore sounded shortly after noon. Over the land there was a quietness reminiscent of the days when peaceful commerce and business was the major interest of the English channel.

No planes of the Royal Air Force or the German Luftwaffe were seen in the skies this afternoon nor were there warships visible on the channel waters.

Dock workers went about their tasks paying scant attention to the unusual calm.

The hospital ships — the St. Julian and the Dinard tugged at anchor, steam up and ready to push out into the channel.

Down across the British countryside came trains carrying hundreds of German war prisoners—1,500 will be exchanged in return for an equal number of British prisoners.

Some time about dusk — the hour when the residents of this town usually draw their blackout curtains and shut out all light in fear of Nazi bombing planes — the train loads of wounded will draw in beside the docks and start discharging their human cargo.

Claims She's Already Married To Fan Dancer's Cowboy Fiance

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES — Mrs. Helen Greenough said today that the handsome cowboy to whom fan dancer Sally Rand is engaged to her husband.

She said she married Thurkel (Turk) Greenough in Red Lodge, Mont., on April 5, 1933, and lived with him until last June. He is a professional bronco rider.

Mrs. Greenough, pretty and frail, consulted Attorney Lewis A. Schaffer.

"How can he marry that fan dancer if he's married to me?" she asked. "Turk and I were married in Red Lodge, and I went with him everywhere." She said he told her they could not be happy because she disliked living on a ranch.

Miss Rand announced from Kentucky Wednesday that she intended to marry Greenough and "live on his ranch." She added, however, that she would continue her fan and bubble dancing.

Mrs. Greenough said the dancer met her husband in 1935 at a rodeo in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Mrs. Greenough said she did not believe Turk had seen Miss Rand from the first meeting until recently. She indicated she would be willing to give her husband a divorce if he would make financial provisions for her.

Schaffer said he was not ready to discuss Mrs. Greenough's case. He said she had been in frequent contact and was in serious financial straits. She has been able to work only sporadically as a waitress, he said.

DEATH CLAIMS B. W. PERKINS, 49

Mansfield Resident 10 Years Dies at T. B. Sanatorium.

Benjamin W. Perkins, 49, of 239 North Adams street, a resident of Mansfield for 10 years, died yesterday afternoon at the Richland County Tuberculosis sanatorium after a long illness.

A native of Texas, Wyo., he is survived by his widow, Effie Mae, and three daughters, Rosa Mae, Betty Jean and Ida Mae Perkins, all at home.

Private funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at the Jones Memorial with Rev. A. J. Payne, pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

"Can you straighten out this road map?"

UP and DOWN THE STREET

There are many old and new grave markers in Mansfield cemetery but two of the markers do ever symbolize burial places, however. One stands just inside the Chestnut street entrance and the other further back in the cemetery. When viewed in a straight line, these markers represent true north and are used by engineers to find Richland county's true meridian or place on the earth's globe. By the way, if you're interested, the county's meridian, figured from the courthouse, is 40 degrees, 45 minutes latitude and 82 degrees, 30 minutes, longitude.

Anyone knowing the Mansfielders who hailed another hometown couple, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Tedrick, on the corner of Wilshire boulevard and Vermont avenue in Los Angeles, Sept. 27, will please inform the Tedricks. They have been wondering about it since they saw a car whiz by the busy corner and heard the occupants cry "Hello Mansfield," according to a postcard received here by friends of the couple who expect to spend the winter in Ventura, Calif.

Last evening on the Major Bowes radio show, 14-year-old Buddy Lyons of near Mansfield made his first network broadcast when he did a series of bird and animal imitations on the air from New York City.

CLEVELAND HIT AS BEARINGS PLANT CLOSES

Plum Brook Ordnance Tie-Up Ends; Walkout Continues at Niles Steel Mill.

(By Associated Press)

Defense production was halted today at the plant of the Cleveland Graphite Bronze company, maker of bearings, the third Cleveland defense industry to be struck in four days.

At an end, however, was a two-day strike of tool and time checkers at the Plum Brook Ordnance plant near Sandusky, whose AFL office workers union demands restoration of overtime pay beyond 40 hours. An OPM representative assured the strikers their demands would be mediated.

A controversy over wage rates in a change from piece work to hourly figures led to a strike last night at the Graphite Bronze company, by the Mechanics Educational society, an unaffiliated group, involving 2,000 production workers. Most of the company's output goes into planes, tanks and other weapons.

Theodore Sadler, personnel director for the concern, said 700 night shift workers quit in four of five plants, stopping all production.

Union spokesmen claimed the company had been "stalling" on the wage negotiations, but did not amplify their grievances. They disputed Sadler's statement that negotiators had disagreed on the subject of minimum rate of $1.15 an hour for workers with six months experience.

Another meeting was scheduled for negotiations in the strike called Monday at the Midland Steel Products company, Cleveland, involving 1,400 workers. The United Automobile Workers (CIO) demand wage rates comparable to those in the firm's Detroit plant.

At another Cleveland concern, Monarch Aluminum company, a strike was called yesterday by the Independent Aluminum Workers Organization, Inc., which seeks wage increases of 10 cents in hourly rates and 10 per cent in piece rates. About 250 employees were idle.

Still on strike in Niles were members of the Steel Workers organizing committee (CIO) at the Niles Rolling Mill company. They demanded restoration of 1937 pay rates. The union claimed a majority of the 450 workers were union members. Ernest Webb, SWOC representative, said the base rate is 72 1/2 cents an hour, 12 1/2 per cent below the 1937 rate.

Six hundred drivers, dockworkers and checkers employed by 56 freight trucking companies in Akron will vote Monday on acceptance or rejection of an agreement reached last night by representatives of the company and an AFL drivers union.

The union had threatened a strike to enforce its demands for wage increases of 10 to 15 cents an hour on rates of 65 to 70 cents. Terms of the agreements were not announced.

Leaves Cancelled, Ohioans Ordered To Camp Shelby

ALEXANDRIA, La. — (AP) — Ohio's 37th infantry division is on the move again.

In a sudden change of plans, Buckeye soldiers were ordered to bivouac stations to start back to their permanent base at Camp Shelby, Miss., today. Originally the division was scheduled to remain here until Monday.

Hundreds of Ohioans were out of camp on 48-hour passes when the new order came through.

All leaves were cancelled immediately and sound trucks were sent through the streets of Alexandria bearing the announcement. The Alexandria radio station also broadcast a call for members of the 37th to return to camp.

The division moved quickly in the emergency to maintain the reputation for speed it won in the war games concluded last week-end.

Enforcement of parking meter and other traffic violations has tightened up considerably during the two months the Mansfield traffic squad has been on duty, a report on fine collections showed today.

Mansfield motorists paid $900 in traffic fines during September and the greater part was paid for parking meter violations. In August, first month of the traffic squad's service, collections went to $732 which was $264 more than in July.

Although the September collection did not establish a record, it would have, police say, if letters had been sent out to all violators. In March, $903.25 was paid in for traffic fines.

THEATERS

Premiere Tonight.

"Sergeant York," Warner Brothers' great drama of the Tennessee farm boy who distinguished himself in the First World War, opens at the Ohio theater today at a reserved seat premiere beginning at 11:30 p. m. The American Legion Drum corps will appear on the stage prior to the screening as a special feature of this performance only. The picture begins a week's run at the Ohio Saturday at 11 a. m. and will be shown at a continuous performance. Produced after 22 years of trying to persuade the real Alvin C. York to sell the motion picture rights to this story the production traces the life of York from his native hills to the front line trenches where he captured 132 Germans almost single-handedly. Gary Cooper, York's own choice for the title role, Walter Brennan and Joan Leslie, head the tremendous cast.

Deluxe Comedy.

Hailed by motion picture critics as one of the "Big Ten" pictures of the year, "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," Robert Montgomery's new starring comedy vehicle, opens a four-day run at the Madison today. Predicated upon a hilarious situation that slightly resembles the ghost-comes-to-life episodes in the "Topper" pictures the comedy revolves around Montgomery as a contender for the light heavyweight championship who winds up in a tailspin while piloting a plane. His adventures thereafter are revolutionary as far as screen stories go. A distinguished cast supports Montgomery including Claude Rains, James Gleason, Edward Everett Horton and a newcomer, Evelyn Keyes. "Lady Scarface," with Dennis O'Keefe is the second attraction.

Air Thriller.

Richard Arlen's air thriller, "Forced Landing," is showing at the Ritz coupled with a second picture, "The Phantom Rancher," starring Ken Maynard.

Juvenile Romance.

Hollywood's younger set headed by Jane Withers and Jackie Cooper are currently featured at the Park in "Her First Beau," the story of two 16-year-olds torn between kid playtimes and the desire to be grown up and embark upon a career. Edith Fellows, William Tracy and Una O'Connor are featured. Tex Ritter in "Ridin' the Cherokee Trail," is the second production.

Nautical Comedy.

James Cagney plays a typical Cagney role as the cocky and rebellious tar in "Here Comes the Navy," showing at the Majestic. Co-starred with Pat O'Brien he perpetuates a feud began when O'Brien stole his girl and keeps up the fight until he falls in love with O'Brien's sister. Frank McHugh and Dorothy Tree are in the cast. "Wild Man of Borneo," with Frank Morgan, Billie Burke and Donald Meek is the co-attraction.

WILLARD — Funeral services for Mrs. Ruth Wiles, 29, who died of infantile paralysis at Willard Municipal hospital will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Trinity Lutheran church. The body was to be removed to her late home in Centerton today.

LUCAS FIREMEN SAVE DWELLING FROM FLAMES

Farm Home Near Hastings Damaged; Bucket Brigade Fights Blaze.

LUCAS — Prompt action by three members of the Lucas village fire department is credited with having saved the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bellvue, near Hastings, seven miles south of here, which was severely damaged by fire Wednesday night.

Unable to take the Lucas fire department outside the village limits, Fire Chief Dale Peterson, Assistant Chief E. Dean Byerly and Leonard Smith rushed several fire extinguishers from Lucas to the Bellvue home where with the aid of neighbors who formed a bucket brigade they succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

The roof and upper story of the dwelling was badly damaged by the fire, which was discovered when members of the family investigated an odor of smoke. As a result of the fire, Monroe township residents are being aroused to the need of adequate organized fire protection for rural communities surrounding Lucas and it is expected that a movement will be started here immediately to organize and equip a fire department for the entire township area.

LUCAS — Participating in the World Communion Sunday the Lucas and Little Washington congregational churches will hold their fall communion service Sunday, according to Rev. John A. Peyton.

The church and communion service at Lucas is scheduled for 9:30, and will be followed by Sunday school at 10:45. The Little Washington church service is announced for 10:45, with Sunday school at 9:30.

LUCAS — There will be no church services in either the Lucas or Pleasant Valley Lutheran churches on Sunday, it was announced here today. Sunday school will be held at the regular time, however.

Dr. George W. Miley of Columbus, president of the Lutheran Synod of Ohio, who conferred with the joint council of the two churches last week, said that the synod would provide regular pastoral supply for Sunday services as often as desired by the local churches.

No plans have been announced for the hearing of a candidate to succeed Rev. M. P. Paetznick whose resignation as pastor at Lucas became effective on Oct. 1.

Tyger Bares Claws for Grudge Battle With Sandusky

Sell-Out Crowd Looms For Grid Game Tonight

Mansfield Seeks Revenge For 32-21 Defeat of Last Season

TONIGHT'S the night—the big night a victory starved Tyger has been waiting nearly a year for, and out at Stadium field at 8 o'clock the season's biggest crowd of Mansfield football fans will be on hand to see what a meal the Tyger can make out of a Blue Streak.

Yes, it's the night of the Mansfield-Sandusky high school grid battle, and advance sale of tickets indicates a sell-out crowd.

The Mansfield Tyger has had a couple victory feasts already this fall, but he was neat, if not dainty, in the way he went about devouring the Akron West tidbit 40-0 and the Elyria hors d'oeuvres 39-0 and remembered his table manners at all times.

But he's apt to show a ravenous appetite tonight, and all in there with claws bared and flashing, and the light of battle gleaming in the eyes of the jungle cat. The Tyger is out for revenge for a 32-21 beating in 1940, and for other trimmings in years past, and he's been told that there's no time like the present to get that revenge.

Whether he can stop the Sandusky Blue Streak and chop it up in little pieces remains to be seen, but there's no doubting his intention. That's just exactly what the Tyger is out to do.

The Mansfield gridders will swing into action with a warning from Scout Harry Mehoek not to take the Blue Streak too lightly, that Sandusky is not only the biggest, but the toughest team they have met, and that it still carries a scoring threat in spite of the fact that the Streak was beaten 14 to 0 by Cleveland Collinwood and 26-12 by Lorain.

Sandusky hasn't lost all its power of last year. In the Streak starting lineup will be four players who started last year's game, B. Niehm, 160-pound guard, Leser, 202-pound right tackle, Girardi, 168-pound right end, and R. Babcock, 140-pound quarterback. Also seeing action in the 1940 game were Kahler, 225-pound left guard, and J. Babcock, 170-pound center.

R. Babcock scored one of the touchdowns for Sandusky last fall but the boy who beat the Tyger isn't with the Streaks any more. That was Ben Fleming, swiftest of three long touchdown runs. And Farnar, who tallied the other Sandusky touchdown, also is gone.

Mansfield has almost a veteran team back from that which took the Sandusky beating a year ago, including Bill Doolittle who tallied two touchdowns, and Adam Brandt, who added the extra point after all three Mansfield touchdowns. Heinke scored the other touchdown.

Stellar Wingmen Help Tygers Click

Good ends are important cogs in any gridiron machine, and in Bob Winbiger, left above, and Joe Romano, right, the Mansfield high Tygers this year boast two of the state's best high school wingmen. Mansfield grid fans expect Sandusky's Blue Streaks to slow down to a blue walk when they try to circle these two ends tonight.

Madison Line to Carry Most Of Battle In Mt. Gilead Tilt

It's going to be up to the line when Madison meets Mt. Gilead tonight on the Rams' home field.

With the Mt. Vernon game just a week ahead and hoping to spare two backs from chances of getting messed up in tonight's fracas, Coach Al Fendrick said today that Harold Hammer and Bob Anthony, both starting backs, will be kept on the bench.

What's more it's going to be against a tough gang that the Ram line will be battling.

Mt. Gilead on a basis of comparative scores is right on a par with Madison. Madison beat Galion 12-0 in a practice game, Fendrick explained while Crestline, a class A team, trounced the same team 19-0.

Then two weeks ago Crestline trounced Mt. Gilead 7-0. Which of this maze of tactical logic means anything, makes Crestline one touchdown better than both Madison and Mt. Gilead and the two teams on a par.

Adding to the Madisons' worries is the statement by Crestline officials that their team had all it could do to top Mt. Gilead efforts by even that much.

Last night while John Simpson junior high and the Madison frosh were battling to a 20-20 tie the Rams went through their last workout, stressing signal practice and pass work with no heavy contact.

At the conclusion of the practice session Fendrick announced the following starting lineups for both teams

Madison	Pos.	Mt. Gilead
Fletcher	L E	Patterson
Herr	L T	Dumbaugh
Gene Batson	L G	Flavin
Sprister	R G	Geyer
Keller	R T	Giffin
Rinehart	R E	Lovey
P. Wynn	R E	Ward
W. Wynn	R E	Rhodebeck
Windsor	R E	Miller
Bell	R E	Corvin
Garn	R E	Fate

A comparison of weights listings of both teams gives the Mt. Gilead outfit an eight pound advantage per man, but Fendrick believes his boys will be able to take all Mt. Gilead has and toss back more if they'll get in and pitch.

Joe Harfman, out of play for two weeks, will be ready for sub work in the line this time and Fendrick believes Jack Fletcher, Pat Herr and Gene Batson have what's necessary to hold up the usually weak left side of the Ram line.

Previous to the varsity debacle tonight teams from Woodville and Lincoln Heights coached by B. H. Robinson and Ira Smucker will play a preliminary game under the lights starting at 6:30 p. m.

Pitching Selection Worries McCarthy for Third Game

Wyatt Turns Tables on Yanks to Even Series

Durocher Undecided Whether To Pitch Higbe or Fitzsimmons

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—There was no doubt in anyone's mind today that this was to be a grimly-fought world series, after all, as the Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers moved to Ebbets Field to continue the battle for gold and baseball glory.

The whole picture changed abruptly yesterday when Whitlow Wyatt stood the slugging Yankees on their collective noses for the last five innings and pitched the scrapping Dodgers to a 3-2 victory at Yankee stadium, squaring the series.

Until Wyatt came through for the National league champions, things had looked mighty dark for them. The manner in which the Yanks had bounced the Bums around in the opening contest brought visions of another four-game sweep for the Bombers, and Brooklyn was disappointed.

Both managers named alternative pitching choices for today's struggle in the heart of Flatbush. Manager Leo Durocher of the revived Dodgers was torn between Kirby Higbe, the young speedballer who won 22 games for him this year, and Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, the veteran with the knuckle ball that swoops and dances. Fitz was supposed to have the inside track, provided his arm felt up to a nine-inning chore.

Disappointed at Spud Chandler's sudden loss of effectiveness in yesterday's tussle after he had pitched four nearly-perfect innings, Joe McCarthy of the Yanks was in a state of indecision whether to use Marius Russo, the southpaw, or Alton Donald, a right-hander with fine control. Russo was thought more likely to get the call if he could get a rebellious stomach back on the reservation by game time.

Only one thing was absolutely certain about today's contest, or about the next three, for that matter. The crowd was going to look small after the two huge gatherings in the stadium. Where more than 65,000 saw the opener and 66,248 turned out yesterday, only about 34,000 can be sandwiched into the Dodgers' emporium.

There might be some unscheduled excitement in Brooklyn, too, if the two clubs continue to fly into each other with the violence shown so far and the games remain as tense and close. For two days now they have been acting like blocking backs on base paths. The runners on both clubs slamming into the infielders with intent to maim. There's likely to be a blow-up between the players if it continues, and the Brooklyn fans have been known to take a personal interest in any scraps involving their heroes. Boy, my battle bowler.

While Wyatt's superlative pitching in the pinches stood out like a red nose in yesterday's game, it was almost equally easy to spot the Yankee who did most to make the Dodgers victory possible. It was little Phil Rizzuto, the freshman shortstop, who twice at crucial moments was caught far out of position and saw hits go bouncing through where he should have been.

In the fifth inning, for some unfathomable reason, he was playing far over toward second on Mickey Owen and the Dodger catcher scratched the single between third and short that drove across the second Brooklyn run, tying the score.

In the next inning he played Billy Herman, another right-hand batter, the same way, and Billy biffed one through the identical spot, sending Dixie Walker to third with what eventually proved to be the winning run. Dolph Camilli, who couldn't hit a lick in the first game, drove Walker across with a wallop to right.

It was a good thing Dolph hit that one, because from that point on Johnny Murphy, who relieved Chandler, allowed the Dodgers only one harmless bingle by Cookie Lavagetto in the ninth. In fact the Flatbushers made only five hits in all, compared with nine the Yankees collected off Wyatt.

It is not often that the boys get an opportunity to second-guess a manager, but he apparently was thinking of something else when he let Pitcher Murphy take his turn at bat in the sixth.

The Dodgers were out from, 3-2, and Wyatt was getting faster by the minute. With two down, Joe Gordon drew one of his three walks of the game and sped to second on Rizzuto's rap to left field. The tying run was on second, the winner on first, and instead of a pinch-hitter popping from the Yankee bench, out stroled Murphy himself. He took three lousy swings, missing the ball by increasing margins each time.

It was a strange decision for McCarthy to have made. The game was getting late and the Yankees had a dangerous pinch-hitter, George Selkirk, raring to go. When Selkirk finally did get his chance in the ninth inning, after the time to beat Wyatt had long since passed, he lapped a hit to right field. That is what is known as second-guessing.

Dodger Fans Cheer on This Yankee Out

The delirious Dodger rooters in New York's Yankee stadium gave their husky throats plenty of exercise when Yankee Joe Gordon was put out by Dodger Catcher Mickey Owen as he tried to score on a third base grounder by Chandler in the second inning of the second world series game. Umpire Pinelli and Yankee First Baseman Johnny Sturm watch the putout. A crowd of 66,248 fans watched the Dodgers cop this second game by the identical 3-2 score they suffered when the Yanks took the opener.

Newsman Aim At Second Win

City News Pros Meet Fort Wayne Tomorrow.

The City News professional gridders, who won more followers among Mansfield football fans by their 18 to 6 defeat last Sunday at Akron by the South Akron Awnings, than they did in an easy opening victory over Lorain EX-HI's, return to Madison high school field tomorrow night to tangle with the St. Joe Athletic club of Fort Wayne, Ind.

With the exception of Kenny Lockhart, who is probably out for the season with an ankle injury suffered in the Akron game, the Mansfield club is in shape and ready to get back into the victory side of the ledger.

However, the dope from Fort Wayne indicates the Mansfielders will have no easy task in turning back the St. Joe club.

On the squad of 22 players being brought here by Fort Wayne, no less than three are former all-Indiana high school stars, while several are former college players.

The Saints last year won the Fort Wayne city championship, and are out after bigger game this season.

Tomorrow night's game is scheduled for 8:15.

CITY TO CLEAN 2 WATER WELLS TO HIKE OUTPUT

Expects to Boost Mansfield's Supply to 7,000,000 Gallons Daily.

Two of wells giving Mansfield its water supply will get cleanings within the next few weeks, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced today.

Crafton said that the Hershey and Castor wells, both located in the Maxwell springs field, southwest of the city, would be cleaned as soon as possible.

Last month, the Markley well, which pumps one-fourth of the city's supply daily, was struck by lightning and put out of commission for more than a week.

Because the Griebbling well had already been dismantled for cleaning, the city narrowly escaped a water shortage. Work on the Griebbling well was rushed however and completed before the supply was seriously affected.

The Markley well was also cleaned when the repaired pump was installed.

Crafton said that the cost of cleaning a well ranges from $150 to $200, depending upon the needed repairs. The wells have not been cleaned for almost five years.

At the same time, Crafton said that the city plans to put down some new test wells in the Maxwell field to seek new water resources to add to the city's supply. Greater residential and industrial growth will require more than the 6,500,000 gallons pumped daily at present, he indicated.

The service director said he believed the cleaning of the Hershey and Castor wells will increase their combined supply almost 500,000 gallons daily, bringing the total daily supply for the city to 7,000,000 gallons.

PAM—Worried! By A. W. Brewerton

SEEN ANYTHING OF OUR FRIEND MASON LATELY, PAMELA? WONDER IF HE'S MADE ANY PROGRESS?

NO, I DON'T THINK HE HAS, COLONEL.

... HE WAS OUT TO SEE ME LAST NIGHT, AND HE SEEMS VERY DISCOURAGED. I TRIED MY BEST TO CHEER HIM UP!

POOR BOY, I WISH I KNEW SOME WAY TO HELP HIM.

WONDER IF I SHOULDN'T HAVE CONFIDED IN COLONEL CAREY ABOUT THOSE FINGER-PRINTS, ASKED HIS ADVICE? WELL, IT'S TOO LATE NOW. BUT I'M AFRAID I MADE A MISTAKE, FOR —

... IF HE HAS BEEN IN TROUBLE, DONE SOMETHING WRONG, IS WANTED, THE F.B.I. WILL SURELY GET HIM NOW! TRY TO TRACE HIM DOWN, EVEN IF I REFUSE TO TELL HOW I GOT THOSE FINGER-PRINTS! — OH, DEAR!

JUDGE PUZZLE— By Gene Ahern

I HAVE A LEASE ON A WELL-UP-STATE, AND THE FUNNY PART IS, THE WATER COMES UP PLAIN, LIKE OUT OF THE TAP, BUT TURNS INTO CARBONATED ICE WHEN FROZEN. THEN IT FIZZES AS IT MELTS!

UNLESS YOU HAVE AN UNDERSTANDING OF ADVANCED CHEMISTRY, IT WOULD BE HARD FOR ME TO EXPLAIN IT TO YOU IN EVERYDAY LANGUAGE!

MY, YES...

TWO YEARS OF CHEMISTRY IN HIGH SCHOOL!... LET'S HEAR YOU GIVE ME THE CHEMICAL ANALYSIS OF TABLE SALT!

ISN'T THAT THE PHONE RINGING FOR YOU, JUDGE?

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No employers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $100 or less and 2 1/2% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day or sooner if necessary.

MAGGIE—REMEMBER LAST MONDAY—YOU TOOK A PAIR OF PANTS TO ME A MESSAGE AT THE OFFICE FOR ME TO DO SOMETHING?

WHY, YES!

CAN'T YOU REMEMBER WHAT IT WAS?

NOW—LET ME THINK! WHAT WAS IT? LAST MONDAY—NOW WHAT COULD THAT HAVE BEEN?

I'LL KEEP THE PURSE HERE A FEW DAYS. THAT GUY, DUKE, MAY SHOW UP AGAIN AND—WHEN I TURN HIM OVER TO THE COPS, I WANT TO TURN OVER THE EVIDENCE WITH HIM.

I THINK GETTING A LINE ON YOUR PURSE SNATCHER IS OUT OF THE QUESTION HERE, TESS. HOW ARE YOU DOING?

THIS IS OUR FOURTH GAME, NO WINS!

TRACY, THE FREAK SHOW OPENS IN TEN MINUTES. LET'S GO THERE!
